MORNING GLORY FARM

Morning Glory Farm, started in 1975 by James and Deborah Athearn, grows about 55 acres of vegetables and small fruits here on the island of Martha's Vineyard. Small successive plantings of a wide variety of crops supply the farm stand from May through December.

Crops include sweet corn, lettuce, carrots, beets, tomatoes, melons, potatoes, beans, squash, pumpkins, and more. The "morganically-grown" herb garden supplies a full assortment of culinary herbs. The farm also raises 2 acres of cut flowers, and small plantings of strawberries, blueberries, peaches, and beach plums. Open June-October.
